

PARENTS

Children in Kindergarten - 3rd grade with developmental disabilities are invited to participate in a research project at Florida State University to study speech, language and reading development

We are currently recruiting children who:

- have a developmental disability
 - are in Kindergarten, 1st, 2nd, or 3rd grade
 - May or may not use speech to communicate
 - are able to use their hand to activate a computer touch screen
 - Have English as their primary language at home
- Your child's participation will take 2 - 2 ½ hours over two to three visits at Florida State University in the School of Communication Science and Disorders, Warren Building, 201 W. Bloxham St.
 - Your child will be given formal and informal developmental, speech, language, and reading assessments.
 - You will be asked to fill out a demographic form and questionnaire about your child's home reading experiences.

Your child will be provided a set of books for his/her participation.

If you would like to participate, please contact:

Andrea Barton-Hulsey, PhD, CCC-SLP

850-644-7285

abartonhulsey@fsu.edu

