

FSU Center for Autism & Related Disabilities Key Components for Parents Supporting Their Child with ASD with “School at Home”

Week 7 - Making Plans

Join our weekly online series of meetings to learn key ways to help your child manage a new way of “going to school.” This series will use a “flipped classroom” model where we will send you recorded information each week and then follow up with a live webinar, facilitated by one or more FSU CARD consultants. During the webinar, you are encouraged to ask questions, share information, celebrate successes and problem solve challenges specific to your particular situation, to the extent you are comfortable.

Interested? Follow these steps:

1. Register NOW for Week 7: Making Plans
2. Once registered, you will receive an email with more detailed directions and a link or two to recorded videos to watch on your own. Watch the recordings before Thursday’s Zoom Webinar.

FSU CARD is dedicated to providing individuals with autism or related disabilities, their families, and professionals who work with them, free consultation, resources, and educational support to build knowledge, confidence, infrastructure, and sustainability within the community.
