Dating Do's and Don'ts

Strategies for Understanding Dating Etiquette

Join us for a ten-week series on strategies to improve your dating experiences.

Topics addressed include letting someone know you like them, asking someone on a date, and going on dates. Personal safety and online dating will also be covered in this series.

CARD is offering this training in collaboration with Florida State University School of Communication Science and Disorders. During the training, participants will work with a graduate student clinician from this program for added feedback on skills learned.

This training series is for adult FSU CARD clients. Class size is limited.

FSU CARD is dedicated to providing individuals with autism or related disabilities, their families, and professionals who work with them, free consultation, resources, and educational support to build knowledge, confidence, infrastructure, and sustainability within the community.
