

FSU Center for Autism & Related Disabilities

Book Study

The Loving Push by Temple Grandin

Please join us for an exploration of The Loving Push by Temple Grandin.

These sessions will focus on how to use this book to think about independence and how important it is to quality of life for our teens and young adults on the autism spectrum. Strategies for fostering independence and self-advocacy skills will also be discussed.

FSU CARD is dedicated to providing individuals with autism or related disabilities, their families, and professionals who work with them, free consultation, resources, and educational support to build knowledge, confidence, infrastructure, and sustainability within the community.
